HOW TO READ THIS BOOK

Every name, date and relationship in this book comes from the family tree and its records, and carries its grade: PROVEN read on an original record; PROBABLE strong evidence short of proof; POSSIBLE a lead still being tested. Living members of the family appear by name and relation only.

The book is drawn from the family website, where every name opens a full record with its sources, and the search, family tree and relationship finder are always one tap away: perlow-wiesner-family.sites.tab.bot. Names in this book link to the same records.

CHAPTER ONE

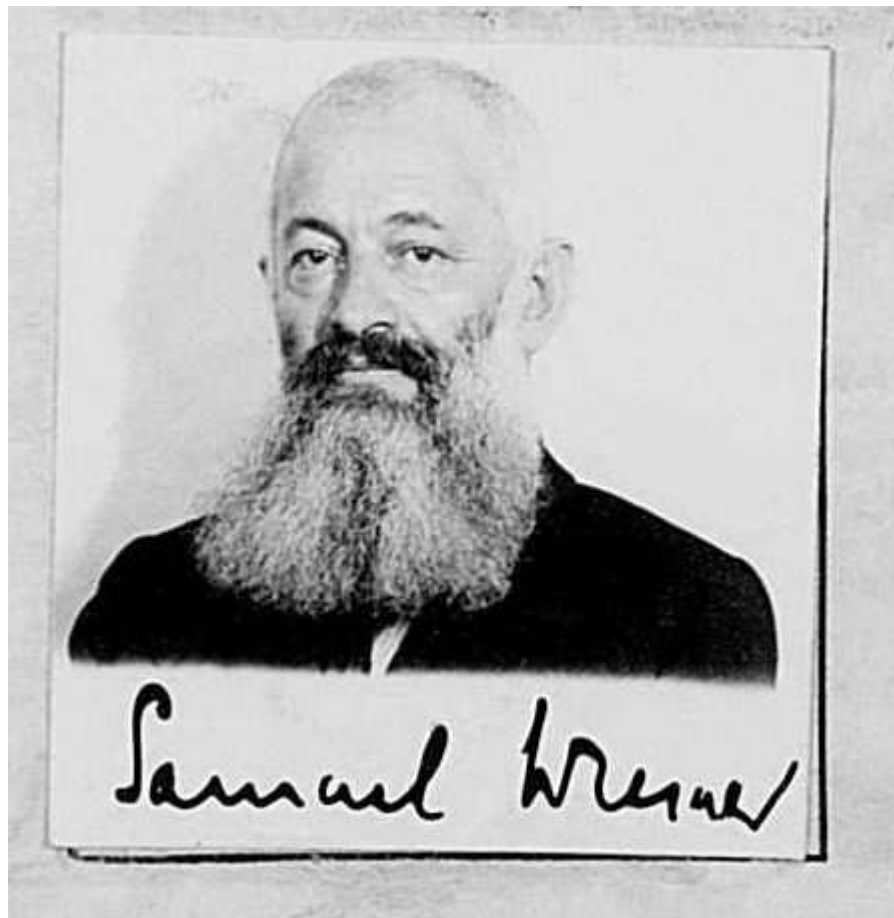

The Seven Siblings

R' Eliezer Zev and Miriam Perlow and the lines that meet in their children

CHOMSK · SAJÓSZENTPÉTER · MUNICH · VILNA · KOBE · SHANGHAI · BROOKLYN · JERUSALEM

This book begins with seven brothers and sisters: Feigel (Cipi), R' Aharon (R' Ari) z"l, Hindy, Yanky, Chayie, Asher (Osher) and Shmaya — the children of R' Eliezer Zev (Lejzer) Perlow and Miriam Perlow née Wiesner. Each chapter that follows traces one of the family lines that meet in them, generation by generation, with the records, gravestones and photographs behind every name.

R' Eliezer Zev (Lejzer) Perlow was born in Chomsk on 27 March 1914, the son of R' Aharon Perlow and Feigel Zditowski, daughter of R' Eliezer Zditowski. R' Aharon was the son of R' Chaim Chaikel Perlow; the family memorial pages in Imrei Eliezer al HaTorah (Brooklyn 1995) give R' Aharon's yahrzeit as 11 Tammuz, of a year not yet known. Feigel died at Khomsk in August 1941; two of her daughters, Freida and Fruma, very probably died there the same year.

Studied at the Mir yeshiva and travelled with it through Vilna, Kobe and Shanghai; landed at San Francisco on 14 Sep 1946. Married Miriam Wiesner on 17 Nov 1948 at Gold Manor, 665 Willoughby Ave, Brooklyn; her father Rabbi Samuel (Shmaya) Wiesner officiated. Naturalized EDNY 19 Apr 1955.

His road, 1939–1946: Mir → Vilna → Kaunas (visa, 6 Aug 1940) → across Russia → Kobe (arrived 13 Feb 1941) → Shanghai → San Francisco (14 Sep 1946) → Brooklyn.

Miriam Wiesner was born at Sajószentpéter on 2 Oct 1922, the daughter of Rav Shmaya (Samuel) Wiesner and Szerén (Sarah Leah) née Szender. She and R' Eliezer Zev were married in Brooklyn on 17 November 1948; her father officiated. She died in 2023.

Her father, Rav Shmaya Wiesner (born 24 Jan 1890, Ajnácskő): Rabbi. Married Szerén Szender at Hajdúnánás on 11 Feb 1919. Wrote in the Orthodox weekly Zsidó Újság (1925, signed "Wiesner Samu, Sajószentpéter"). Came to America in 1939; his house and shul from 1941 were at 1424 49th Street, Brooklyn.

CHAPTER TWO

Perlow & Zditowski

Chomsk, in today's Belarus

CHOMSK · TELEKHANY · MIR · VILNA · KOBE · SHANGHAI · BROOKLYN

R Eliezer Zev (Lejzer) Perlow was born in Chomsk on 27 March 1914, the son of R' Aharon Perlow and Feigel Zditowski, daughter of R' Eliezer Zditowski. R' Aharon was the son of R' Chaim Chaikel Perlow; the family memorial pages in Imrei Eliezer al HaTorah (Brooklyn 1995) give R' Aharon's yahrzeit as 11 Tammuz, of a year not yet known. Feigel died at Khomsk in August 1941; two of her daughters, Freida and Fruma, very probably died there the same year.

Karlin near Pinsk, drawing by Napoleon Orda, 1875 (ruins of the Wiśniowiecki castle).

Napoleon Orda; National Library of Belarus — via Wikimedia Commons · Public domain

R' Chaim Chaikel had at least four children: R' Aharon; R' Asher, the blacksmith of Chomsk; Jacob Perlow of Telekhany (1884–1958), proven to be R' Eliezer's uncle by the 1941 Mir yeshiva list; and very probably Esther Dollinger of Brooklyn (1897–1945). Jacob lies in the plot of the Telechaner Swentiwohier society at Montefiore Cemetery, which ties the family to Telekhany, near Chomsk. In 1982 R' Eliezer wrote that his father was “of the family of the Stolin Rebbe” (proven as printed). On Feigel's side, the Zditowski clan of Khomsk can now be followed back to Leyzor son of Itsko, in the revision lists of 1806 and 1811 (probable).

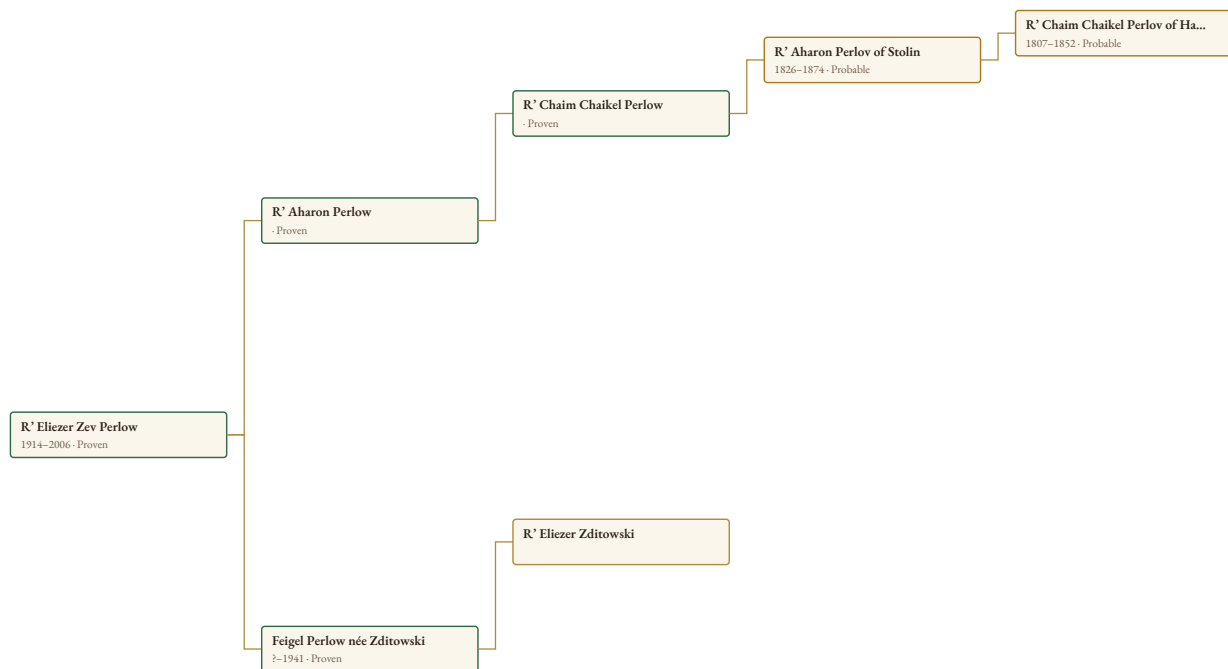

How the family is related to Reb Aharon HaGadol of Karlin. R' Chaim Chaikel is R' Chaim, born in Stolin in 1852, son of R' Aharon Perlov of Stolin (b. 1826) — possible on the records, and confirmed by the family. R' Aharon of Stolin was the son of R' Chaim Chaikel of Haradnaja near Stolin (1807–52; probable), whose father R' Moshe Dov Ber (1779–1847, buried in Tiberias) was the STEPSON of the Stolin Rebbe R' Asher — that is how the Perlov name came into this line (proven as printed). The blood tie runs through R' Chaim Chaikel of Haradnaja's mother Beyla, a daughter of R' Moshe of Kobrin, Reb Aharon HaGadol's brother (probable). His first wife Devorah was Reb Aharon HaGadol's granddaughter, through his daughter Rivka; if she was the mother of R' Aharon (b. 1826), the family also descends from Reb Aharon HaGadol directly (possible). The source is a Stolin–Karlin journal, Kovetz Beit Aharon veYisrael no. 214 (2021), which prints the Stolin censuses and a 19th-century handwritten family tree by R' Shmuel Heller of Safed. This whole Stolin–Karlin–Kobrin block — generations 5 to 9 counting the seven siblings as the first (R' Aharon Perlov of Stolin, R' Chaim Chaikel of Haradnaja, R' Moshe Ber and Beyla, R' Aharon of Zelichov, Feiga, R' Moshe of Kobrin, R' Yaakov of Kobrin and their wives) — is family tradition, not documented: it attaches to our family only through the link of R' Chaim Chaikel Perlow to R' Aharon Perlov of Stolin, which rests on the family's word (October 2026) and the 1982 phrase "of the family of the Stolin Rebbe"; no record follows R' Chaim b. 1852 after 1874. Generations above that link are not counted as documented.

R' Eliezer learned at the Mir yeshiva and went with it into exile — Vilna, then Kobe (his name is on the Sugihara visa list of 6 August 1940, line 1231) and Shanghai — and landed at San Francisco on 14 September 1946. His elder brother HaRav Chaim Chaikel Perlov (1911–1996) also reached America. Their uncle Asher Perlow, the blacksmith of Chomsk, and his household died at Khomsk in 1941.

In Brooklyn on 17 November 1948 R' Eliezer married Miriam Wiesner at Gold Manor, 665 Willoughby Avenue; her father Rabbi Samuel (Shmaya) Wiesner officiated. He was naturalized in 1955 and died on 16 Tammuz 5766 (12 July 2006). They had seven children: Feigel (Cipi), R' Aharon (R' Ari) ז"ל, Hindy, Yanky, Chayie, Osher and Shmaya.

Miriam Wiesner Perlow was born at Sajószentpéter on 2 October 1922, the daughter of Rav Shmaya (Samuel, Samu) Wiesner (1890–1961) and Szerén (Sarah Leah) Szender. Rav Shmaya, born at Ajnácskő, wrote for the Orthodox press of the 1920s as “Wiesner Samu, Sajószentpéter”; he came to America in 1939, and from 1941 his house and shul stood at 1424 49th Street, Brooklyn.

His father Farkas (Wolf, Ze'ev) Wiesner was born at Gáva in 1865 and married Golda (Gizella) Braunfeld at Sajószentpéter in December 1887; he died there in 1922. Farkas was the son of Antal (Naftali Tzvi) Wiesner and Blüme Reich, who married in 1855; Antal ended his days in Jerusalem in 1907. Blüme was the daughter of R' Wolf Reich, a wool merchant of Kovácsvágás, born at Nyíri on 4 April 1794, who died on 11 February 1864, and of his wife Mushkat (Muszkat), born at Nagyida on 7 September 1797, who died at Pusztafalu on 20 April 1864 — the marriage original reads “Miskat”, correcting the earlier “Mikal”, and the exact dates come from an 1857 census printed in Alei Zikaron 63 (Probable, high). Blüme's sister Eszter married Rabbi Sámuel Krausz of Kovácsvágás.

Antal's father was the elder Shmaya (Sámuel) Wiesner of Gáva, born about December 1802 at Sátorajaujhely, who died at Gáva in 1862; he married at least three times. Antal's mother Rozália, born at Csaba, was very probably a daughter of the Pri Tzadik, R' Meir Avraham of Csaba (d. 1829) — the 1839 printing of the Pri Tzadik names “my brother-in-law R' Shmaya” of Gáva among its subscribers. The Pri Tzadik's wife was Frumet Pessel Benet (Probable), who died at Miskolc in 1845, daughter of R' Gabriel Benet of Cífer and Rebeka of Nikolsburg; his own father, in his handwriting, was “R' Yosef called Yozpa ... at Cífer”.

The Pri Tzadik was buried at Hejőcsaba, near Miskolc — this is now proven: a letter of 1971, printed in “A miskolci Avas” (1993), asks that the graves of “rabbi Meir Avraham (Pri Cadik) and his wife” be moved to Miskolc separately, and a book of 1970 describes a visit to his grave there. Whether the four old stones now standing in parcel VIII of the Avas cemetery in Miskolc are his and his wife’s is possible only.

Of Rav Shmaya’s ten brothers and sisters, several died at Auschwitz in June 1944, as did their mother Golda; Ignác, Béla, Gyula and the youngest, Antal (Naftali Tzvi), survived.

Gizella Braunfeld, wife of Farkas Wiesner, was born at Sajószentpéter in 1871 and died at Auschwitz on 13/14 June 1944. Her photograph survives on a Salvadoran protection certificate of 16 September 1942.

Her father Ignác (Yitzhak) Braunfeld was born about 1818 at Monostorpályi in Bihar and died at Sajószentpéter on 2 September 1892; his gravestone names him “son of R’ David ... his mother’s name Mirl”. Ignác was the mohel at the birth of his grandson Dávid Wiesner in 1891. Golda’s mother Juli (Rivka Leah) Grosz died on 7 March 1917 — proven from her gravestone; her parents were possibly Jónás Grosz, arendator of Sajószentpéter, and Leni Roth.

Ignác married twice. His first wife Czily Grosz was the mother of Rosi (b. about 1846 at Szendrő) and of Rabbi Sámuel Braunfeld, later rabbi of Erdőtelek (d. 1917). With Juli he had the children born between 1852 and 1872, first at Szendrő and, from the early 1860s, at Sajószentpéter: József (1852, cantor of Baja), Czilli (1855), Teréz (Rézi, 1856), Dávid (1858, assistant rabbi of Kecskemét), Ábrahám (Adolf, 1859, a cantor), Ferencz (1862), Jonás (Cantor Julius of New Orleans, 1863), Simon Sándor (1865), Perecz (1869, of whom nothing more is known), Golda (1871) and Zsigmond (1872), who became George Sigmund Braunfeld of Milwaukee. Ignác himself was the community’s shochet, cantor and mohel — a family of synagogue servants from him down.

CHAPTER FIVE

Szender, Engel & Fried

Hajdúdorog and Hajdúnánás

MÁD · ÚJFEHÉRTÓ · MAKÓ · NAGYKÁROLY · HAJDÚDOROG · HAJDÚNÁNÁS

Sarah (Sarah Leah) Szender, wife of Rav Shmaya Wiesner, was born at Hajdúnánás on 29 April 1894, the daughter of Herman (Tzvi Aryeh) Szender, a merchant, and Jetti (Etel) Glück. Herman and Jetti were married at Nyírbátor on 21 March 1893; the original register entry names both sets of parents. Her sister Margit was born at Hajdúnánás in 1914.

unknown photographer; The archive of the Görög Demeter Művelődési Ház — via Wikimedia Commons · Public domain

Herman was born at Hajdúdorog in 1869, the son of Mendel (Menachem, Emánuel) Szender (c.1825–1913) and Kati Engel. Mendel's parents were Lajos (Leib) Szender — R' Tzvi Aryeh of Dorog, now Probable (high) from three sources — and Róza Klein, possibly the "Szender Róza, 84, born at Mád" who died at Újfehértó in 1876.

Kati Engel was the daughter of Jakab (Yaakov Koppel) Engel, innkeeper of Hajdúdorog, born at Makó about 1812, and Klára Fried, born at Nagykároly about 1818. A new generation: Alei Zikaron 64 (2023) names Koppel's parents as R' Yoshe (Yehoshua) Engel and Gitel (Probable) — the same note gives dates for Mendel and Kati that match the civil records exactly. It replaces an earlier guess, Gábor Engel and Borbála Ignatz of Makó, now demoted.

Mendel's brother R' Dávid Szender, a shochet of Hajdúdorog who died in Jerusalem in 1897, had a son Sámuel, born at Szentmihály in 1861. A Shmuel son of David Szender, aged 71, was buried at Košice in 1932, and his stone there was restored in 2026 (Probable that they are the same man). Herman himself also made straw hats: a 1912 statistical yearbook lists his straw-hat works at Hajdúnánás, founded 1907, with 25 employees.

CHAPTER SIX

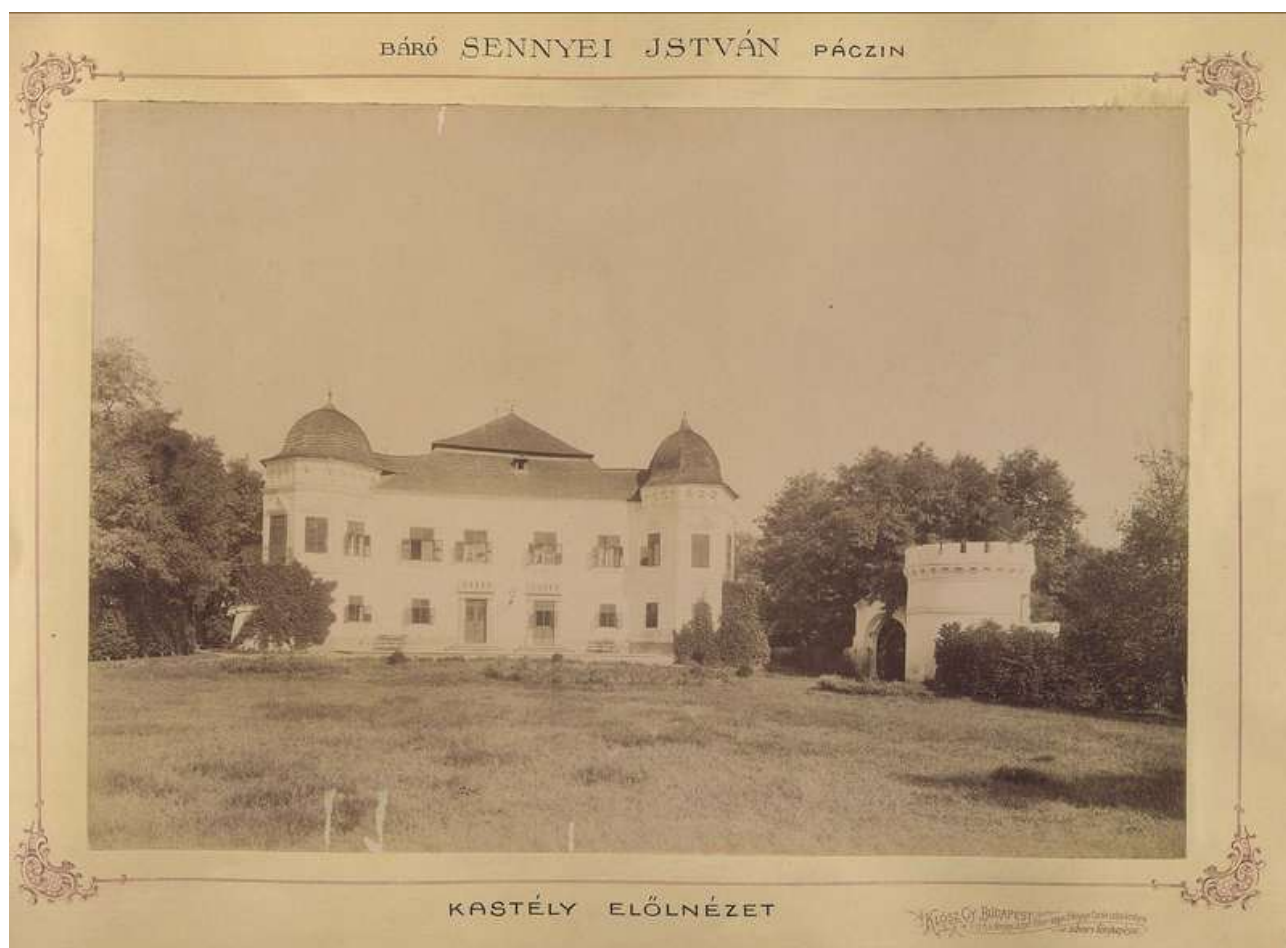

Glück, Rózmann, Ornstein & Fisch

Nyírbátor, Kemece, Bököny, Pápa and Kalló

PÁPA · BÖKÖNY · KEMECSE · NYÍRBÁTOR · PÁTROHA · NAGYKÁLLÓ · UNGVÁR

Jetti Glück was born at Nyírbátor on 10 May 1873, the daughter of Sámuel Glück, iron merchant of Nyírbátor (d. 1896), and Betti (Borbála) Rózmann of Pátroha. A gravestone at Nyírbátor of “Frumet, wife of R’ Shmuel Glick”, who died on 24 June 1926 aged 70, is very probably Betti’s — her Hebrew name was Frumet, daughter of R’ Shimon Tzvi Rózmann of Pátroha. Betti’s parents were Samuel (R’ Shimon Hersh) Rosman, landowner of Pátroha, and very probably Sára Leah of Horlyó.

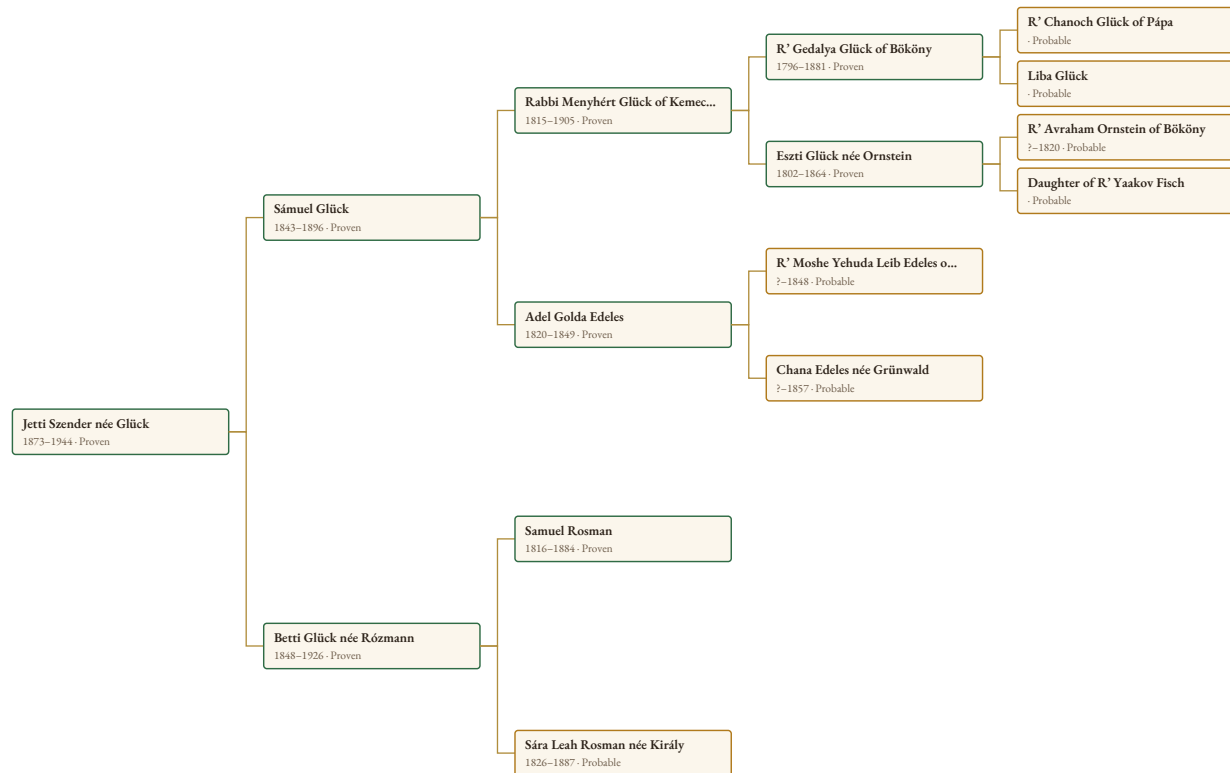

Pácin, the Sennyei (Mágócsy) castle, front view, photographed 1895–1899; Adel Golda and her sister Rizel were born at Pácin (1848 census)
Fortepan 83458 (donor Budapest Főváros Levéltára), via Wikimedia Commons

Sámuel's father was Rabbi Menyhért (R' Menachem Mendel) Glück of Kemece (1815–1905), whose stone calls him "son of R' Gedalya of Bököny"; he founded the Kemece yeshiva about 1879. Sámuel's mother was Adel Golda (Leutscha) Edeles — proven by the 1848 census of Szobránc, and by an 1880 signature "Shmuel ben Adel Golda" — not the "Chana" of earlier accounts. Her parents were very probably R' Moshe Yehuda Leib Edeles of Véke and Chana (Hani) Grünwald (Probable); above them R' Zeev Wolf of Véke is a possible link. R' Gedalya (Dániel) Glück was born at Pápa on 15 February 1796 and died at Bököny on 13 November 1881; he wrote Chayei Olam, printed in 1899. His original gravestone at Bököny was found during this research, and he appears in contemporary documents — the Chatam Sofer calls him "my diligent student R' Gedalya", and in 1864 he sat as a judge of the Kalló court.

R' Gedalya's parents were, very probably, R' Chanoch (Henoah) Glück of Pápa — listed there in 1828 as "Jud. Gluk Enoch" — and Liba; a probable brother, Elias Glück, was a merchant at Ungvár and died there in 1874. By family tradition (Possible only) the family came from Prague under the name Gad.

R' Gedalya's wife Eszti (Esther) Ornstein (d. 1864) was the daughter of R' Avraham Ornstein of Bököny and a daughter of R' Yaakov Fisch, Judenrichter of Kalló, who signed in 1797 as "Yaakov Fisch ben R' Yitzchak" and died on Simchat Torah 1843. His own stone in the Fisch ohel at Nagykálló reads "son of R' Yitzchak".

CHAPTER SEVEN

Remembrance

Those of the family who died in the Holocaust, those who survived it, and the cases still open

Each name is given with the relationship, and the date and place as the records state them. The lists follow the grades on the family tree: only a person whose record is PROVEN is listed as a confirmed victim; anyone graded PROBABLE or POSSIBLE stays under “Unresolved” until a record settles it. Survivors are listed where the records say so. Nothing here is a guess.

CHAPTER EIGHT

Faces of the Family

Photographs with every identified person labelled

Tap a framed face to see who it is, how they belong to the family, and to open their record. Use + and – to look closer, and “Hide labels” to see the photograph as it is. A face is framed only where the photograph’s own caption or record identifies the person; nobody’s face is guessed. Where the names are known but not who stands where, the names are listed under the photograph instead. The original photographs are untouched — the labels are an overlay.
